A new vision of knights, dragons, and the fair maiden caught in between . . . Four decades of peace have done little to ease the mistrust between humans and dragons in the kingdom of Goredd. Folding themselves into human shape, dragons attend court as ambassadors, and lend their rational, mathematical minds to universities as scholars and teachers. As the treaty's anniversary draws near, however, tensions are high. Seraphina has reason to fear both sides. An unusually gifted musician, she joins the court just as a member of the royal family is murdered. While a sinister plot to destroy the peace is uncovered, Seraphina struggles to protect the secret behind her musical gift, one so terrible that its discovery could mean her very life. Seraphina's tortuous journey to self-acceptance will make a magical, indelible impression on its readers.

Many mammals like to dig in the dirt, but few call it home. Those that do, such as mole-rats, zokors, and tuco-tucos, have developed novel adaptations to their subterranean life, including bones and muscles modified for efficient digging and ways to "see" underground without using their eyes. These unusual traits, adopted independently by unrelated groups around the world, also make subterranean rodents fascinating subjects for biologists. Life Underground provides the first comprehensive review of the biology of subterranean rodents. Arranged by topic rather than by taxon to facilitate cross-species comparisons, chapters cover such subjects as morphology, physiology, social behavior, genetic variation, and evolutionary diversification. Two main questions run throughout the book. First, to what extent has subterranean life shaped the biology of these animals, leading to similar adaptations among otherwise dissimilar species? Second, how have the distinct evolutionary histories of these groups led to different solutions to the challenges posed by life underground?

Pourquoi avons-nous construit trop de bombes atomiques et pas assez de logements, trop de centrales nucléaires et pas assez d' universités? Pourquoi nous sommes-nous laissé prendre au piège du second choc pétrolier? Pourquoi ces 100000 morts sur les routes que l'on aurait pu éviter, ces 1100 milliards de dettes injustifiables légués à nos enfants? Pourquoi les Français ne peuvent-ils pas choisir leur fin de vie? Pourquoi cette impossibilité de moderniser notre société? Si nous en sommes arrivés là, c'est parce que la démocratie française est paralysée par l'incompréhension, la méfiance régnant entre le peuple et les élites. Ce divorce entretient les querelles stériles, favorise les fausses solutions, s'oppose aux réformes nécessaires. Il trouve ses racines dans les erreurs d'analyse, le manque de transparence et de concertation, l'abus de l'idéologie de nos élites. Mais aussi dans l'absence d'engagement et la protestation systématique qui sont devenues l'apanage des Français. Pour comprendre le divorce français, François de Closets a mis au jour des dossiers sensibles, refait les enquêtes, parcouru à nouveau le chemin suivi par la France depuis cinquante ans. Et les histoires qu'il a reconstituées sont ahurissantes, passionnantes et inattendues. Un livre choc et salutaire: le divorce entre le peuple et les élites n'a que trop duré. Quand il est impossible de se séparer, il faut savoir se réconcilier. François de Closets est journaliste et écrivain. Il est l'auteur d'une vingtaine de livres dont Toujours plus! (1982), Le Compte à rebours (1998), La Dernière Liberté (2001), Ne dites pas à Dieu ce qu'il doit faire (2004) et Plus encore! (2006). Graphisme: Les Inventeurs du Réel - 01/2008 Photogravure MCP

There has been a general assumption in the international debate surrounding organ procurement that Presumed Consent (opting-out) systems produce better results than Express Consent (opting-in) systems. This study uses the French case to challenge this widely held assumption and argues that the French presumed consent systems coexist with patterns of behaviour that in practice do not mobilize the law. It explores four key areas to current research in socio-legal studies focussing on the state and nature of social solidarity, social engineering and the changing nature of the citizen-state relations, state intervention in the event of death and discretion in use of corpses and recent modifications of the status of medical professionals as figures of authority and agents of state policy. Using material based on interviews with medical professionals, this title will be a valuable resource for researchers, academics, policy-makers and practitioners with an interest in this complex and topical subject.
